Debbie

Photographs by Fanny

Debbie was rather a handful for our lenslady Fanny. She proved to be a bundle of energy, suggesting poses, alterations to the lighting, changes to the background, and generally taking an interest in the technical side of the photographic session.

'I've always fancied myself as a bit of an entertainer.'

she said, 'so I like to get deeply involved with everything I do.

'My main interest in life at the moment is music, plain and simple. I must have music surrounding me at all times. I love to bask in it, feel its beat in me, move with the undulating rhythm.

'I reckon I've got a good voice, and I sing at every opportunity. My big ambition is to sing in Wembley stadium, surrounded by thousands of people all caught up in my music, moving with me.

'Even when making love, I must have music. It doesn't matter if it's raunchy rock, gentler ballads or harsh new wave, I get off on music. I can't tell you in words just what music means to me.'

We get the idea, Debbie. ♣

LORI

Photographs by Michelle Moreau

It took a great deal of persuasion before we could convince lovely Lori that baring her unquestionable charms would positively benefit our highly critical readers. Happily, for us and you, she eventually concurred.
Her innocence was further enhanced by her reluctance to speak of past love affairs and boyfriends. ♣

'What do I want out of life? I'll tell you in one word – wealth. I want to be fabulously wealthy, not just comfortable. I want to own property and shares in big successful companies, fast cars and yachts, jewels and fine paintings by old masters.

'Not much to ask, is it? After all, I'm prepared to sacrifice everything – my youth, my good looks, my health. If I need to use them to get what I want it will be worth it. Any millionaires out there?'♣

Lucianna

Photographs by Fanny

Lucianna is actually my middle name, but I think it's far more romantic than Terri, my first name. I was named after a great grandfather, I think. Lucian his name was.

'He was supposed to have been a very outrageous person in his younger day. Joined the navy while young and had a woman in every port – and a few bambinos, too, I'll bet.

'I don't know if I'm supposed to have the same characteristics, but I think I would be quite happy to be compared with him. He was an adventurer, and I like to think I am too.

'This modelling job, for instance. That's quite adventurous, don't you think? I could never have seen myself doing this while I was at school. There they were only interested in turning out obedient little housewives. Nothing wrong with housewives, you understand, it's just not my bag.

'I suppose you want to hear all about my boyfriends and my wild sex-life? In fact, that's one area where my great grandfather and I differ slightly.

'I have very few friends – people who I would trust in totally and reveal my innermost secrets to. I feel that friendship is a valued thing, or should be, and I don't give it or accept it lightly.

'As for lovers, well the same thing applies. When I find a man who turns me on, and the feeling is mutual, I throw myself into the affair wholeheartedly.

'I become very jealous and possessive. I'm not suspicious of his every absence, or every glance at another woman, but I would be truly hurt if he was cheating on me, and I would like to think that my men feel the same way about me. I'm strictly a one man woman, and I'm not ashamed to admit it. In many circles these days, it seems to be some sort of a sin to be faithful.

'Marriage? I've given it much thought, and I feel it's probably the most important event any two people can embark on. I feel that I am faithful in a love affair, but I would have to be doubly so if I got married. ♣

I've just come back from France – Paris, actually. I went to visit some friends I met when I was at university there a few years ago. It brought back so many memories, good and bad.

'It isn't the most romantic city in the world, I feel, but the atmosphere is like nowhere else on earth. Especially in some of the seedier parts where you can see pimps and whores rubbing shoulders with nobility and big business men. But that's everybody's impression of Paris anyway, isn't it?

'And I met Claude again – he was my first true lover. Ah, yes. He taught me all I know. And I'm sure there were some things he didn't let on about.

'And, I'm pleased to say, he's lost none of his old skill!' ♣
